1. INTRODUCTION

The Aberdeenshire GIRFEC Strategic Group (GSG) and the Aberdeenshire Child and Family Protection Committee (AC&FPC) have developed this Aberdeenshire multi-agency Child Sexual Exploitation (CSE) Strategy to ensure that all partner organisations and individuals across Aberdeenshire are supported to work together effectively to ensure the wellbeing and safety of Aberdeenshire's children and young people.

Children and young people who are sexually exploited are the victims of child sexual abuse, and their needs require careful assessment and intervention. The group may include children who have been sexually abused through the misuse of technology, coerced into sexual activity by criminal gangs or the victims of trafficking.

'In Scotland, the Scottish Parliament's Public Petitions Committee carried out an Inquiry into child sexual exploitation in 2013 to explore its scale and nature. It heard from the National Working Group estimates from Scottish agencies of the likelihood of child sexual exploitation victims ranging from 64 to 300 for each agency. It also highlighted concern around under-recognition of the issue, particularly in rural areas.'

Brodie, I. and Pearce, J. (2012) Exploring the nature of child exploitation in Scotland. Edinburgh: Scottish Government.

Four studies have identified sexual exploitation in Scotland, although none of these have examined prevalence, and are small scale, empirical studies of specific groups of young people known to be at risk of sexual exploitation – looked after and accommodated young people and young people placed in secure accommodation. Details of the studies are included as Appendix 2.

We recognise that the issues seen in Aberdeenshire may be different from those in densely populated urban areas. Much of the related literature and formal reporting relates to problems in such areas so requires us to be vigilant and creative in our identification and recognition phases. Thus we must support our staff in different ways and keep CSE high on the agendas for learning and development.

Aberdeenshire's vision for its children and young people;

'The children and young people of Aberdeenshire are confident individuals, effective contributors, successful learners and responsible citizens'

Children's Service Plan

2. DEFINITION

For the purposes of this Strategy we refer to Child Sexual Exploitation as -

Child sexual exploitation is a form of child sexual abuse in which a person(s), of any age takes advantage of a power imbalance to force or entice a child into engaging in sexual activity in return for something received by the child and/or those perpetrating or facilitating the abuse. As with other forms of child sexual abuse, the presence of perceived consent does not undermine the abusive nature of the act.

*National Definition of child sexual exploitation(CSE)
Scotland, Scottish Government, 2016*

In Aberdeenshire we recognise that Child sexual exploitation can occur even if there is no immediate payment or gain, for example, when a child is persuaded to post sexual images on the internet/mobile phones.

In all cases those exploiting the child/young person have power over them by virtue of their age, gender, intellect, physical strength and/or economic or other resources (DCSF, 2009). This 'exchange' may also be intangible, in the sense that the young person involved will typically believe that the relationship in which they are involved is a consensual one, and that the abuser(s) are their 'boyfriends'. Consequently, the violence and abuse to which the young person is subjected will be perceived as normal and acceptable.

This Strategy acknowledges the major challenges for those seeking to intervene to end the abuse, in that the young person will often be unable or reluctant to accept help and/or to end the relationship (Pearce, 2006; Pearce, 2009). There are also social and cultural tensions in terms of what is understood to represent a 'consensual' relationship amongst teenagers

4. SCOTLANDS NATIONAL ACTION PLAN TO TACKLE CHILD SEXUAL EXPLOITATION 2014

Our Aberdeenshire CSE Strategy is underpinned by the ambitions of Scotland's National Action Plan 2016. The National Plan has been developed with specific areas of focus for tackling Child Sexual Exploitation:-

- PREVENTION of abuse (with specific measures for dealing with particularly vulnerable children)
- DISRUPTION AND PROSECUTION of offenders through legislation
- SUPPORTING children and young people affected by CSE

The National Action Plan sets out four key groups of responsibility to deliver solutions.

- Scottish Government
- Police Scotland
- Care Inspectorate
- MULTI-AGENCY (attached at Appendix 4)

6. ABERDEENSHIRE CONTEXT

Aberdeenshire is a predominantly rural area in the north east of Scotland widely recognised as being one of the safest places to live and work in the United Kingdom. Within Aberdeenshire, outcomes for economic development and quality of life compare well at a national level:

'In Aberdeenshire, recorded numbers of crimes and offences are at an 8-year low while 98% of residents regard Aberdeenshire as a safe place to live.'

Aberdeenshire Single Outcome Agreement 2013-2023

The sexual exploitation of children and young persons is not a new phenomenon. It is also recognised that Aberdeenshire's rural location serves as no barrier or deterrent to those who exploit and abuse our children and young people.

Continuous advances in computer and mobile telephone technology are providing new opportunities and a platform for those who are determined to take advantage of the most vulnerable in our communities. In most instances, victims are targeted randomly and those who respond are enticed by the lure of friendship and close relations.

In Aberdeenshire, existing single and multi-agency procedures, guidance and training is in place to safeguard children and young people. When they are harmed or their safety is threatened, we respond accordingly. Recent developments such as improved information sharing and awareness raising amongst children, their families and professionals, has strengthened this partnership response to those who are sexually exploited.

In formulating this strategy, Police Scotland undertook a survey of recent Police reports and investigations of sexual exploitation, and provided evidence that children most at risk are those who are reached within their own homes via the use of internet enabled devices.

There are cases where victims are prepared to meet, after an initial contact, with persons unknown to them. Victims in this category will be vulnerable and can often be known to services.

On this basis it is therefore necessary that a co-ordinated and multi-agency response is developed to counter the persistent threat of child sexual exploitation.

7. OUR VISION

The vision of Aberdeenshire's Multi-Agency Child Sexual Exploitation Strategy is

'WORKING TOGETHER TO KEEP CHILDREN AND YOUNG PEOPLE SAFE FROM CHILD SEXUAL EXPLOITATION'

All relevant partners will share responsibility and work together to ensure an integrated and proactive approach to tackling CSE which is child and family centred.

In Aberdeenshire a multi-agency 'CSE Operational Working Group' will form to coordinate the strategic aims. The CSE Operational Working Group will create an action plan based on the findings of a multi-agency mapping exercise (attached at Appendix 3) and a series of children and young people focus groups. The working group will report directly to the Aberdeenshire GIRFEC Strategic Group and work in association with other relevant sub-groups and partnerships.

In supporting and considering the Aberdeenshire CSE strategy, the key areas of PREVENTION, DISRUPTION & PROSECUTION and SUPPORTING, have been employed to formulate the Aberdeenshire MULTI-AGENCY response to tackling CSE in our communities.

It is widely recognised that best practice in tackling CSE can be found in other areas of the United Kingdom where CSE has affected children, young persons and their families with devastating consequences. In Aberdeenshire, we will capture the lessons of CSE cases reported elsewhere and make use of national and local resources from across the public and third sector.

The Aberdeenshire CSE strategy will draw on the experiences of other local authorities but also be alert and mindful to the geographical and demographic variances which are unique to our area.

Our action plan will be developed using the principals of the nationally accepted University of Bedfordshire 'Self-Assessment Tool' to assess progress in protecting children from sexual exploitation.

8. OUR VALUES

In Aberdeenshire our agreed core values for the delivery of children's services have remained consistent with all partners continuing to work together to ensure that:

- The child/young person is at the centre of everything we do.
- We act in the best interests of the child or young person.
- Children and young people receive the help they need.
- Help is proportionate, timely and appropriate.
- The help provided improves the child or young person's situation and reduce risk.
- The best interests of the child/young person are at the centre of all planning and decisions that affect them.
- We listen to children and young people and let them know how their views are being taken forward,
- We support children, young people and families to live in a healthy, safe home environment, within a caring supportive community and free from prejudice, poverty, exclusion, fear of crime and discrimination.

Children's Service Plan

9. OUR STRATEGIC PRIORITIES

The purpose of the strategy is to keep children and young people safe from child sexual exploitation. In order to achieve this, agencies will continue to work together to build upon existing single and multi-agency responses and processes and also be creative in identifying and responding to new and emerging forms of CSE. The key messages as summarised below, form the basis of how we will deliver on PREVENTION, DISRUPTION & PROSECUTION and SUPPORTING;

Scoping exercise to better understand the scale and nature of CSE in Aberdeenshire.

Relevant professionals have an understanding of the prevalence, risk factors and indicators of CSE in their area and aware of the referral pathways to use when they are concerned about a child or young person

Children and young persons, parents and carers and members of the wider community have increased awareness of CSE

Children and young persons at risk of CSE and other related risks are identified to prevent them from becoming victims of exploitation

Basic and enhanced awareness raising and training of CSE delivered to all professionals working with children and young persons.

Identifying children most vulnerable to CSE such as looked after children and frequent missing persons and linking this to cultural differences and emerging issues.

Engagement and awareness raising with community groups including night time economy workers.

Early intervention and learning in schools and educational establishments to promptly disrupt CSE

All practitioners working with children and young persons to recognise the significant harm CSE causes and to identify criminal behaviour at an early stage

Use of criminal and civil legislation to tackle and disrupt offenders who exploit and abuse children and young persons and prevent them from reoffending.

Raise awareness of best practices of collating evidence which supports the prosecution of offenders.

Promote sharing of information between agencies to identify offenders and victims of CSE.

Ensure children and young persons who have or may be at risk from CSE have access to appropriate and wide level support.

Children, young persons and their families are encouraged to fully engage with services and processes and pathways are discussed and explained.

Robust use of Risk Management Plans to support children and young persons exposed to CSE

Children, young persons and their families are supported before, during and after investigations and criminal prosecutions.
