

How Far We Will Fly

In every room and in every landscape,
be always looking for what must speak to you,
and for who you absolutely must meet.
Movement is there,
the course that we must chart for ourselves.
Lead from your passionate hopes and your freedom.
Get into trouble, as you raise up your voice and get started,
passing the wisdom hand to hand.

Meaningful action is a process of presence and innovation.
It's a journey of listening without agenda or assumption;
we are shaped by our thoughts and opinions.
We must grow collectively,
if we are to benefit from each other beyond the barriers.
Let the conflicts fall away,
and allow your heart to be the advocate of your experience.

We have choices about how to use our power
and how far we will fly.
Don't be narrowed by the focus on ownership and formality.
The words you want will come.
It is your job to share and reinvent your life and your principles.
Embrace the wider spaces,
where people can show up and share where it is that they want to go,
and the depths of what they are standing for.
